volume 3 number 4

OCTOBER 2024

WELCOME TO THE MUSELETTER!

MUAH AH AH AH AH! Thunder claps Greetings you ghastly ghouls and music monsters! May your bones shiver and shake with a frightful night at the music picks for October!

This is a very exciting edition of the Museletter, but with a spooky twist! Starting of course with the cover designed by Sam (DJ Chooch host of Weird Waves alternating Wednesdays from 6 to 8am)! Big thank you to DJ Chooch for that very scary and evil cover! We also cannot thank everyone who took the survey enough! We got so many responses from you monsters this month. We also wanna thank everyone who wrote a review, y'all are lovely writers!

NOW HEED OUR WARNING AND BEWARE OF THE MONSTERS THAT LURK IN THESE VERY PAGES!

COMMUNITY COMMENTS

glaiive's new album is an rly good return to his original sound all while keeping a little of the pop/indie energy he tried to encapsulate with "i care so much i dont care at all", lil tecca production is 10/10 per usual, J,PEG is an engineering masterpiece

I've been super into Mall Grab (Jordon Alexander) since seeing him at Portola in SF a few weekends ago. Ohana is a really cool album--part textural, dance-y techno tracks and part guitar-strumming indie love songs. I love the variety--Jordon can do it all!

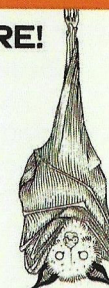

"Strangeways, Here We Come" is great jangle pop for the Halloween season. Listening to it makes me feel like I'm in the opening scene to an 80s horror movie (in a fun way!).

Feeling very spooky this month thanks to Juju by Siouxsie and The Banshees....

I LOVE HABIBI!!!!!!
Its also fall so officially pinegrove season :-)

ALBUM REVIEWS

MJ LENDERMAN - Manning Fireworks

"Manning Fireworks" by MJ Lenderman --- I am a month late to the new MJ album, but it is really filling a hole in my fall season rotation! Classic southern-leaning outsider rock from the guitarist of Wednesday and Asheville, NC native. Indie leaning, a little more obscure and fuzzy version of Pinegrove with slide guitars! Love the raw use of strings and the overdriven jazzmaster (ala J. Mascis) throughout the album. Listen to "Wristwatch" on your next chilly morning stroll with a fresh cup of coffee and your favorite cozy sweater. Would be great album for a road trip to Apple Hill. RIYL Dinosaur Jr, Pavement, Wednesday, Pinegrove.

-Dirtbag

V/A - Elefant Dosliluno

I absolutely love all the artists compiled onto this album, if you ever want to get into Spanish indie pop this album is essentially the bible... A really fun track is "Me enamoré de un robot" which has a really wacky instrumental and funny storyline. The standout track to be was "Vente conmigo" by La Pequeña Suiza, discovering them through this record label has made their band one of my favorites. Entering the world of early 2000's Spanish indie has definitely added a lot of variety to my playlists. If you're interested in the genre check this album out! (If you like)

-DJ Caracal

ASCENDED DEAD - Evenfall of the Apocalypse

Ascended Dead need not be introduced with words, the only way to truly understand their blasphemy is through sound.

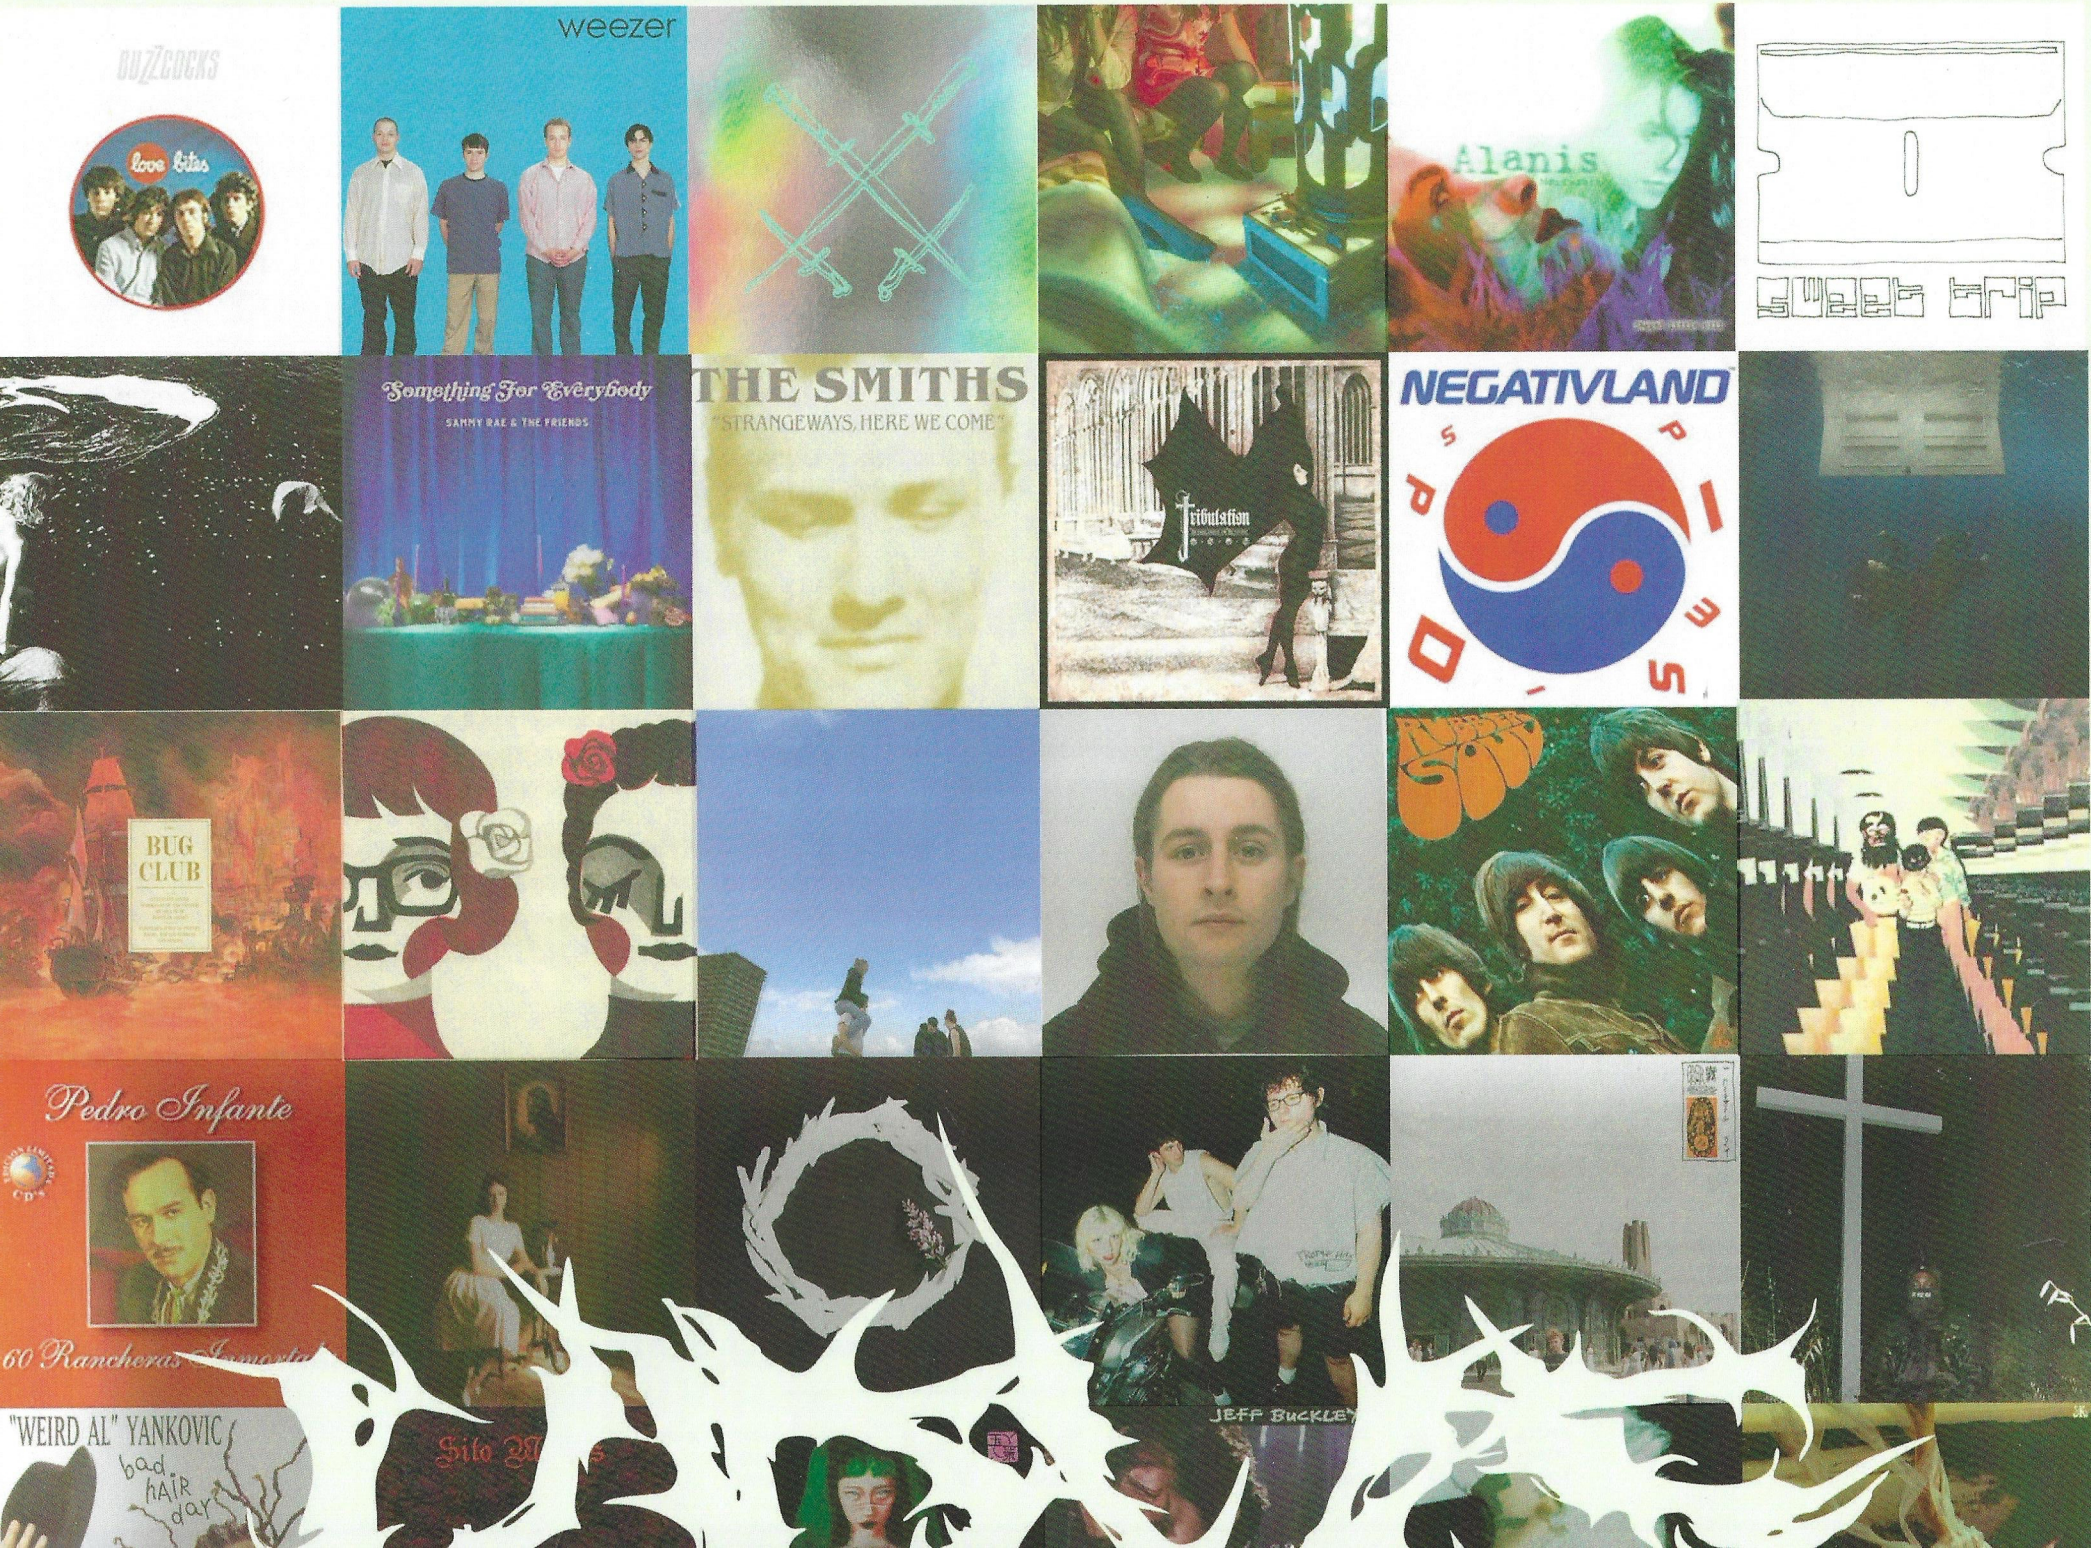

With truly brutal baselines, ear splitting riffage, truly evil drumming, and the screams of a thousand daemons this album will wage true unholy warfare on your senses. Within, a great blend of technicality and out right blasphemy are combined with the lyrics and artwork of pure warfare. This album does not only encompass warfare. It is warfare.

-DJ Skullcrusher

FRANK ZAPPA AND THE MOTHERS OF INVENTION - Uncle Meat

"Uncle Meat" by Frank Zappa and the Mothers of Invention is one of my favorite albums PERIOD. The double album was released in 1969 and is a mix of EVERYTHING: Free jazz, rock, doo-wop, chamber music, "musique concrete", avant-garde, opera singing, live and studio recordings, spoken word, humor, tape manipulation shenanigans, AND MORE! Its themes range from surrealism, gross-out humor, band + groupie life, unabashed sexuality, rejection of societal norms, and general mockery of American culture. I've heard few albums or songs that sound quite like Uncle Meat. And greeting you before you listen is the cover art: a beautifully grotesque anatomical collage designed by Cal Schenkel (I love his art)! When you first listen to Uncle Meat, you might be immediately turned off by its high treble sound, odd combination of instruments, and constant shift in styles. BUT, that's a part of the experience, guys! I won't lie, this is a hard album to get into. Even I didn't like it too much when I first listened to it. But trust me! You gotta give the WHOLE thing a chance! Each song is like it's own little universe with its own unique flavor. Go forth and enjoy this album!

THE GOTHIC ARCHIVES - The Tragic Treasury, 2006

If you are a fan of Lemony Snicket's "A Series of Unfortunate Events," you will enjoy these 13 companion songs, one for each book. From the haunting opener, Scream and Run Away, about "the Count (with) an eye on his ankle," through the horrifically sad Dreary, Dreary, to the slower-than-slow, How Do You Slow This Thing Down, each new track depresses the listener in a new way. Even the seemingly charming Shipwrecked, possibly a love song, and which somehow rhymes "hurt", "shirt", "flirt," and "yurt" (!), has ominous overtones.

The KDVS superfan will probably recognize the deep, rich voice of Gothic Archies lead singer Stephin Merritt from his more well-known band, The Magnetic Fields. But one may be surprised to hear the man himself, Mr. Snicket, playing accordion under his alter-ego of Daniel Handler.

The disc includes 2 bonus tracks, including Walking My Gargoyle, which was used in the audio book of The Carnivorous Carnival, instead of track 9, Freakshow, as the latter contains the word "turds", and was deemed unsuitable for a children's story.

- DJ DOG JUICE

SHANNON AND THE CLAMS - The Moon Is In The Wrong Place, 2024

"The Moon Is In The Wrong Place" is an album that I stumbled on by complete chance while planning out one of my recent shows, and I'm very glad I did. Shannon and the Clams wrote and produced this album shortly after Shannon's fiancé, Joe Haener, tragically passed away in a car accident. This album documents their journey of grief through a garage rock, pop soul sound. The flow of this album takes you through the waves of emotions, with more energetic tracks like "Big Wheel" contrasting their slower songs like "Real or Magic". The lyricism and Shannon's vocal performance in this piece tear me apart every single time I listen to it. I would put this album in my top three albums to have come out this year. All in all, this work is incredibly well done for the way that Shannon and the Clams are able to showcase their love for Joe Haener. I cannot recommend this album enough.

- COMMENTS -

My best moment this month was when DJ Vira gave me a shoutout on air during her show "Vira From Now On"

Turning on the radio to Karaoke Karavan quite literally makes my day. So fun

I would like to thank DJ Vira Vira From Now On for playing a The Dodos B track for me on a Monday afternoon, thus beginning my addiction to calling in to KDVS. I think it's a sadism thing; I just love making people go back to the stacks and sort through everything and find whatever obscure bullshit. Gives me a sort of feeling of power that I don't get anywhere else in my life.

Casper always has it on lock!

Weird Waves constantly catches me off-guard and leaves me entertained with DJ Chooch's comical bits and wide-spanning knowledge of some of the most obscure and certainly "weird" songs I've ever heard. He puts a lot of thought into his shows and I admire his craft!!
